COMMODITY PRICES TAKE SHARP DROP

THE OFFICIAL POSTER marking the 38th anniversary Boy Scout week, Feb. 6-12, in the United States is shown above. This year Scouts are emphasizing conservation of food and natural resources, planting gardens, safety and fire prevention, home repairs and personal health check-up.

Harding Area Program Ready for Anniversary Week of Boy Scouts

Nearly one thousand nine hundred seventy-six Boy Scouts and Scouters in the Harding Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, of whom over 1,359 are in Marion, will join more than 2,000,000 nationally in celebrating Boy Scout week, which will open Friday and continue through Saturday, Feb. 14. The occasion marks the 38th anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement in America.

Special meetings and ceremonies, along with Scout window display competition in the downtown area, are being arranged here to coincide with the celebration of the week throughout the country.

The theme of Boy Scout week this year is "The Scout Citizen at Work: in his Home, in his Community, in his Nation, and in his World."

Since the day, Feb. 8, 1910, when the Boy Scouts of America were incorporated at Washington, D. C., more than 14,000,000 American boys and men have been members. At the present time there are 2,120,000 Scouts and leaders in the nation. The federal charter was granted to the Boy Scouts of this country by congress on June 15, 1916.

72 Units in Area

Seventy-two units, including Pack, Troop and Senior units, make up the Harding Area. This is a part of the 68,500 units in the country.

The main objective of the Scouting program is world peace and mutual understanding. Through World Scout Jamborees, the sixth of which was held last summer in France, and the expanding interest in friendships, understanding and personal relationships through corespondence these aims are increasingly being met.

Launching the local observance of Boy Scout week will be the annual show window display competition in which many Boy Scout troops of Marion are expected to take part. The displays are to be placed in the windows Friday and judging will be conducted Friday night by the sponsors of the project, the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Between 20 and 25 groups are scheduled to arrange displays in downtown windows to compete for prized trophies offered by the Jaycees organization.

Contest Classification

All units will be entered in the contest under three separate classes, with three awards to be made in both the Cub pack and Scout troop divisons, while one traveling trophy will be awarded in the senior division which consists of boys over 15 years of age.

The judging will be based on the following basis: general appearance, 40 per cent; quality of work, 40 per cent; quantity of work, 10 per cent; personnel employed in exhibits, 5 per cent; and originality, 5 per cent. Displays will center on themes such as Scout hobbies, conservation, Scout crafts and camping.

Also as a part of Boy Scout week, two local Scouts will go to Columbus Saturday, Feb. 7, to present the Harding Area report to the nation to Gov. Thomas J. Herbert. Scouts from all over the state will meet at that time to present the reports in a special ceremony in the afternoon in the Ohio State office building. The two Scouts from Marion to present the report are Fred Lacey

BEATS TRIAL IN NUERNBERG BY DEATH LEAP

Charged with War Crimes, German General Jumps from Prison Wall.

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, GERMANY, Feb. 5—Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz, 54-year-old Wehrmacht veteran, leaped to his death today from the top tier of Nuernberg prison.

He jumped only a short time before he was to go on trial for war crimes with 13 other German military leaders before an American court.

Blaskowitz broke away from a file of prisoners on the third tier of high catwalks surrounding the prison rotunda as guards watched helplessly.

He clambered up a seven-foot protective wire and hurled himself over it, landing on a tile floor 30 feet below.

The general died at 10:30 a. m. in the 385th United States military hospital. Doctors said his chest was fractured and his lungs were punctured by ribs broken in the fall.

Comrades In Court

As Blaskowitz lay in the hospital, his comrades were taken into court for the opening of the prosecution's case against them.

The particular charge against Blaskowitz was he mistreated and caused the deaths of prisoners of war and civilians in Poland, where he commanded the Eighth army.

He was the ninth suicide to die in the Nuernberg jail since Hermann Goering and other war-crimes prisoners were brought here in November, 1945.

Among the others were Goering; Robert Ley, former Nazi labor boss, and Dr. Leonardo Conti, accused founder of an inhuman medical experiment program.

Blaskowitz commanded the armies of occupation on Czechoslovakia in 1939 and in the same year became governor of Bohemia.

Later, after the outbreak of the war, he was made commander in southern Poland. From 1942 to 1943 he commanded the First army in Russia.

In mid-1944 he was leading an army group in southern France, but the following March he was shifted to the northern sector of the Western front.

Subsequently he was reported removed from his army group command. He was heading the Twenty-fifth army when the army surrendered to the Canadians in the Netherlands May 5, 1945.

Indicted in November

He was indicted last November with 13 other German war leaders on charges of crimes against peace and humanity. He was arraigned Dec. 30 and pleaded innocent.

Meanwhile, United States prosecutors opened their case against 14 German military leaders today—the twelfth and last war-crimes trial to be held here. They accused Germany's porfessional soldiers of rearming for war even before Hitler.

BODY OF CAREY AREA SOLDIER RETURNING

Special to The Star

CAREY, Feb. 5—The body of Pfc. Andrew Frank Reinhart, serviceman of this area killed in action in France in 1944, is expected to arrive from New York City Friday. Returning of the body here is in accordance with a plan of the government to bring back from overseas bodies of men who died in service, for burial in their native land. The body of Pfc. Reinhart arrived in New York about three weeks ago on the U.S. army transport ship, Eric G. Gibson.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 9:30 a. m. in St. Nicholas Catholic church at Frenchtown of which Pfc. Reinhart was a member. Rev. Joseph Bropst will officiate, there will be military rites conducted by the American Legion post of New Riegel, and burial will be in St. Nicholas cemetery. The body will be brought to the Bristol funeral home here, then will be taken to the home of his mother in New Riegel where friends may call.

Born Dec. 4, 1916, in Seneca county, Pfc. Reinhart was a son of Peter and Rose Theis Reinhart. His father died in 1927. Feb. 4, 1942, he entered service, and went overseas in August, the next year, with the 3rd Armored division. His death occurred July 10, 1944. Before entering service, he worked as a farmer and carpenter and made his home at Frenchtown. He was a member of the Moose lodge at New Riegel.

Survivors include his mother, and sisters and a brother, Mrs. Edward Goshe of Fostoria, Mrs. Frank Lucius of Tiffin, Mrs. Urban Goshe, and Miss Victoria Reinhart, both of New Riegel, Albert Reinhart and Miss Stella Reinhart, both of Carey, and Mrs. LeRoy Kuntz of Upper Sandusky. Another brother is deceased.

45 File for County Office Nomination

Two Hot Contests Feature Lineup for May State Primaries.

20 Democrats and 25 Republicans on List in Marion County.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5 — It's now official that Ohio's May primary will feature two major political contests.

On the Republican side, U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft and Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor, will joust for national presidential convention delegates.

The Democratic feature matches ex-Gov. Frank J. Lausche against fellow Clevelander Ray T. Miller for the gubernatorial nomination. Both are former Cleveland mayors.

That was the picture after the deadline for filing election petitions passed last night.

In races for various statewide elective offices, Republicans entered 19 candidates, Democrats 21.

Five Unopposed

Five GOP incumbents are unopposed: Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert of Columbus, Treasurer Don H. Ebright of Akron, Atty. Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins of Youngstown, Congressman-at-Large George W. Bender of Cleveland, and Supreme Court Judge James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati. Stewart now is serving by appointment.

Unopposed Democrats are George D. Nye of Waverly, former lieutenant governor seeking another term; State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, bidding for a fourth term, and Supreme Court Judge Robert M. Sohngen of Hamilton. Sohngen, like Stewart, is serving by appointment.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, seeking renomination, is opposed by Albert Edward Payne, Springfield businessman making a third bid for nomination, and William L. White of Newark, a political novice.

Edward J. Hummel of Cincinnati, Republican secretary of state seeking a fourth term, is opposed by Ted W. Brown of Springfield. Four Democrats including former Atty. Gen. Hugh S. Duffy of Co-Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy of Columbus, filed for the nomination for Attorney General.

Robert S. Cox of Millersburg, a former Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, and Joseph Torok, Jr., Youngstown grocery employe, also are in the Democratic gubernatorial race with Launsche and Miller.

Contest for 23 Seats

Taft and Stassen will lock horns over 23 of the state's 53 Republican delegates. Stassen entered one delegate-at-large—former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Carrington T. Marshall, Columbus—against the Taft organization slate of nine. He also entered delegates in 11 districts. Taft has delegates in all 22.

Marshall's running mate for alternate delegate-at-large is Atty. Rufus S. Day Jr. of Cleveland. Marshall issued a statement yesterday that he "has no quarrel with Sen. Taft or any member of the Republican organization. My one thought is that for the good of the country, the Republicans should nominate their strongest candidate."

All incumbent congressmen, both Republican and Democrat, seek reelection.

Lausche, incidentally, was the last candidate to file here. His campaign manager Robert L. Moulton of Galion, appeared with

Family Mourns Loss Of Pet Dog in Fire

Members of the family and friends of Virgil Crabtree, whose home was gutted by fire Monday night, requested The Star today to make clear that the possibility of the family's pet dog, Tillie, having caused the fire is "entirely theory."

The family is mourning the loss of the dog, which had been a pet in the home since its birth. It would have been 15 years old Feb. 23.

The possible cause of the fire as reported by The Star on information from Chief Owen Sifritt, was based on a theory coming from the family, that the dog, while alone in the house, may have accidentally caused her bedding to come too close to the stove, causing it to catch fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Crabtree are at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Webb of 596 Girard avenue. Loss of clothing and contents of the home is estimated by the family at around $3,000 and the house at around $4,000. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 5—Surplus machinery parts at the Marion, O. engineer depot worth some $546,000 will be offered for sale on a sealed bid basis beginning Tuesday, Feb. 10.

The sale was announced today by the War Assets Administration and will include; parts for compressors, battery chargers, drills, graders, plows, generating sets, trailers, tractors and other industrial equipment.

The offering is open to priority claimants and commercial buyers only. Bids on the 189 lots should be submitted here by 2 p. m., Feb. 25, the agency announced.

GAS CURTAILMENT EASED UP SLIGHTLY

Restored to Small Industries and Commercial Users.

As warmer weather moved into Ohio yesterday and today, the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., which serves Marion and area eased up on its curtailments somewhat, Charles E. Sechrist, manager of the local office, said the company has announced restoration of fuel gas to small industries and commercial accounts.

However, a forecast of a little colder weather was issued for the state tonight and Friday. The forecast issued by the Columbus weather bureau today for Marion and area was "cloudy and cold with snow late tonight and Friday."

One inch of snowfall was recorded in Marion during the period between 8 a. m. yesterday and the same hour today, with the thermometers registering during that time at a high of 32 and a low of 13. A year ago, the temperatures were at a high of 10 and a low of one above zero.

The general snow in Ohio yesterday slowed traffic in northern and central regions today, while southern Ohioans slushed their way along.

A wide section of the country was blanketed by fresh falls of snow today as a prolonged cold snap in the New England states and midwest showed no signs of abating.

Gorged ice was breaking up in the Ohio river.

CIO SAYS FARMERS WITHHOLDING OUTPUT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—The CIO United Auto Workers declared today industry and farmers are holding down their output to keep their profits high.

The result, declared UAW President Walter P. Reuther, is a "creeping Pearl Harbor" which threatens both European recovery and U. S. living standards.

"There is nothing wrong with the American economy, or with the situation in Europe, that cannot be remedied and saved by American production," he said.

Instead of talking about possible cuts in the $6,000,000,000 starting cost of the Marshall plan, Reuther said, congress should think over whether it should be increased to make sure the plan will work.

He said one old saying which goes "now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party" should be shortened to read:

"Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party."

Reuther gave his views in a statement prepared for the senate [illegible]

Truman Still Wants Congress To Grant Price Controls.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—President Truman said today prices are rising so alarmingly that a crash is inevitable unless something is done to halt them.

For his part, Mr. Truman said he will keep telling congress he needs authority to impose price controls.

Talking to a news conference Mr. Truman brought out charts prepared by the budget bureau.

He said these show steady rises in the prices of commodities, food and all other items. Rises he explained, since he asked for stand-by price and rationing authority in a message to the special session of congress last November.

Mr. Truman did not say whether he is planning a special message to congress. He said members of congress have the same information he has.

A reporter asked Mr. Truman what about the "nose-dive" yesterday on prices on commodity and stock markets. (The price movement continued downward today.)

Still Alarming

The President said the price situation still is alarming.

Then he was asked what the sharp break in commodity and stock prices indicates.

Mr. Truman said he has no comment, that he did not know enough about it yet to express an opinion.

He said the budget bureau charts show rises in just about everything the people buy since his anti-inflation message to congress Nov. 17.

Mr. Truman held up one of the charts. He asked the reporters to just look at what has happened to rents since the weakened rent control bill, due to expire at the end fo this month, was passed last year.

It really is an alarming situation, the President added. Practically everything had gone up.

"Are you going to send a new message to congress?" a reporter asked.

He replied simply that he was going to keep telling them about the situation, but he added they (in congress) know what's going on.

Says Control Essential

Mr. Truman said he thinks government power to control prices of commodities and ration them when necessary is essential.

(It was this power he asked from the special session of congress last fall. He asked it again when the present session met in January. Congress leaders have said there is no chance he will get the broad powers he has asked.)

Mr. Truman said some people argue that controls kill production. He described that as a bad argument. Production, he said was ample under price control.

He declared:

If some way isn't found to stop the upward spiral prices will come down with a crash.

LOSS HALF MILLION IN COLUMBUS FIRE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5—A general alarm fire swept the big garage of the Retail Merchants' Delivery, Inc., last night, destroying 82 cars, trucks, and school buses along with thousands of department store packages ready to be sent to buyers.

William S. Dutcher, proprietor, estimated damage at $500,000. He said a mechanic apparently started the blaze when he dropped a welding torch shortly before midnight. The gasoline tank of a nearby car exploded.

Explosions of the tanks of the other vehicles prevented firemen from entering the building for more than an hour after the alarm was sounded. Five mechanics working at the time escaped.

A corner of the brick building collapsed but no firemen were injured.

Dutcher said it would be impossible to estimate the amount of merchandise destroyed. It ranged from small parcels to crated refrigerators. All the company's records were lost, he said.

Springfield Fire Ruins Buildings, 22 Autos

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 5—Fire destroyed the Conrad Motors, Inc., building and 22 automobiles in downtown Springfield early today.

Eight of the cars were new. Fire Chief Grover L. Frock estimated damage at $130,000. He blamed the general alarm blaze tentatively on a gas heater.

Decline Continues for Second Day in Succession.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—Commodity prices nosedived again today for the second day in a row.

Soon after grain and other commodities plunged under heavy selling, President Truman said prices are rising so alarmingly that a crash is inevitable unless something is done to halt them.

The stock market, weak yesterday, resumed its decline but at a slower rate.

Losses in wheat and corn ranged to 10 cents a bushel as selling flooded the Chicago grain pit. Yesterday wheat for future delivery dropped the 10-cent maximum allowed in a day's trade at Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City.

Moderate selling in the New York stock exchange lowered prices a few cents to around $1 a share.

Lard at Chicago lost 2 cents a pound, the most allowed.

Cotton at New York skidded around $3 a bale, then rallied slightly. Cotton seed oil dropped the 2 cent maximum, and lower prices were posted for sugar and grease wool.

Key To Price Structure

Grain prices are the key to the entire commodity price structure, according to a widely held opinion among economists and businessmen. A break in grains, they say, will be immediately felt throughout the economy.

A. W. Zelomek, of the International statistical bureau, said today's break might be the turning point in the long road of inflation.

Prices are even more vulnerable now than at the end of the first World war, Zelomek declared. The most recent upward push, he said, was based mainly on two things: first, that this country would give, lend or sell to the rest of the world everything it asked for; second, many so-called shortages are turning out to be non-existent.

Zelomek predicted that a pronounced price break might release a hoard of vitally needed goods which are now held by jittery speculators who have kept them hoping for a further rise.

This opinion was also given by a prominent New York banker, who said business is walking the tight-rope of fear of another recession.

President Truman, meanwhile, told a press conference he will keep telling congress he needs authority to impose price controls.

Effect In Dispute

Experts disagree over how yesterday's sharp break in commodity stock and bond prices will affect the housewife's pocketbook.

Businessmen and government officials were studying these developments closely:

The price of wheat bought for future delivery fell the legal daily limit, 10 cents a bushel, at Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City.

At New York, 1,200,000,000 shares of stock were sold at a drop of between $1 and $5 a share—the biggest decrease since May.

The price of bonds fell generally, with railroad issues hardest hit.

Cotton prices at one time dropped $6 a bale, but final prices at New York were from $3.55 lower to 35 cents higher.

The Associated Press commodity index—listing market prices for lard, cottonseed oil, crude rubber and other goods—showed the sharpest drop since September.

Bank Credit Tighter

In Washington, signs were visible of a general tightening of bank credit. Federal reserve bank loans in leading cities dropped $34,000,000 in the week ending Jan. 28.

Some trade experts predicted a general "deflationary trend," some said the price drop was just temporary—and most said they just didn't know.

Two large Chicago trading concerns — the Uhlmann Co. and Goodbody and Co.—said they expect the price decline to continue. The Uhlmann company said it thinks yesterday's drop will cause farmers to sell more.

But another Chicago firm, James S. Bennett and Co., said "spot (cash) wheat is selling at too great a premium over the futures to expect any further declines."

And Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of the Board of Sears, Roebuck and Co., said in Los Angeles: "I believe—but don't predict—that business will be good all year."

Argue Both Sides

Other businessmen and officials found arguments on both sides.

Some economists pointed out that prices should continue steady because:

There has been no change in Europe's need for large amounts of American goods.

There has been no change in the high level of industrial activity at home.

But in Washington, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said:

1. Prices have been too high and that fact may have "begun to take hold of the markets."

2. Recent highly - publicized investigations have driven many speculators from the markets.

3. The world's supply of wheat

New Budget Slice Raises Tax Question

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—The tentative Republican goal to trim $2,500,000,000 off President Truman's 1949 budget raised a new question over tax cutting today.

The $2,500,000,000 figure was approved yesterday by a senate-house budget subcommittee. It is subject first to approval by the full 102-member committee assigned the task of rechecking White House spending estimates and then to ratification by both the senate and the house.

Even then it will not be binding, but only a target to shoot at when the actual money is voted. Last year the committee failed even to agree on a target.

Navy Recruiter Believes His Story; He Reenlists

Chief Motor Machinist's Mate Carl T. Prusnek, local Navy recruiter is a man who practices what he preaches. He left yesterday for Columbus to reenlist in the Navy for another two years service.

Reenlisting is an old story to Prusnek. He has just completed his twelfth year in the Navy, with eight of those years in the submarine service. During the war he was a crew member of the Submarine Nautilus and the U.S.S.-21. He resides with his wife and son at 190 Elm street.

On the other hand Babbit—no relation to Sinclair Lewis—sees quite a future for hypnosis in curing people of bad habits, such as speech defects, stage fright, fingernail biting, overeating and excessive smoking.

"We also can alleviate pain and excessive nervousness in dental patients," he observed, "so that they can have a tooth extracted without taking an ordinary anaesthetic."

Most intelligent people can learn to hypnotize themselves, Babbit said, and added that it was little more difficult than piano playing. In its essentials—that is. Proficiency is another matter.

"But the last thing I would want to do is teach the average person to neutralize nature's danger signal—pain. He might cure a pain in his side that way some night and die the next day of a ruptured appendix."

BABBIT ONCE FLEW down to North Carolina and hypnotized a 24-year-old Negro out of the belief that he was dying of a "hex" laid on him by a witch doctor.

"Since then many people have come to me to be cured of hexes," he smiled. "You'd be amazed by the number who believe in the evil eye."

Babbit, 45, is a former salesman who took up hypnotism as a hobby in his youth. He recently has appeared on television shows. This week he staged a demonstration designed to show that he could hypnotize people who had never seen him with a phonographic recording of his voice. It worked six out of eight times, he said.

Babbit believes hypnotism is induced by creating hyper suggestibility and confidence in the hypnotist.

"You don't need to glare at them, wave your hands or indulge in any stage business," he says.

THE SVENGALI TRADITION dies hard, however, and the question most people still ask him is: "Can you make a man under hypnosis commit a crime or kill himself?"

His answer:

"If there is subconscious or conscious resistance there will be no hypnosis. People under hypnosis will not respond to suggestions which they think are against their own good.

"If an improper suggestion is made to them they either force themselves out of hypnosis or merely stay in hypnosis and refuse to obey the suggestion."

Babbit said there were few records of crimes involving hypnosis.

"And I've never heard of one that was successful."

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN to a person under hypnosis if the hypnotist suddenly died?

"He would pass from hypnosis into sleep and wake up when he was rested."

Can everybody be hypnotized?

"I'd say at least 98 per cent. But one German doctor tried 700 times before he succeeded finally on one difficult patient."

Babbit doesn't recall whether the patient was a man or a woman.

HOSTESS TO CLASS

Mrs. Clara Messenger was hostess to the King Sunday school class of Epworth Methodist church Tuesday night in her home at 233 Forest street. Mrs. Ferdinand Lawrence was in charge. Devotions by Miss Arena Hinds included prayer and a talk on Palestine. A group of original poems was presented by Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence.

In Plain Words — By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

P[illegible]ENT TRUMAN, in his [illegible]e to congress on civil [illegible] week, said:

[illegible] District of Columbia [illegible] a true symbol of Ameri[illegible]m, and democracy . . ." [illegible]es Washington. The [illegible]se homes are here can't [illegible] 800,000 residents can't [illegible] city officials.

[illegible]man asked congress to [illegible]w letting the people here [illegible] they can, he said, maybe [illegible] clear up the "inequali[illegible]ties."

[illegible] inequalities? In many [illegible]shington is a Jim Crow [illegible] Jim Crow — [illegible] for say[illegible]groes are [illegible]part from [illegible] people.

[illegible]mber of [illegible]equalities [illegible]ted out [illegible] report of [illegible]President's [illegible]tee on [illegible]nts.

[illegible] Truman [illegible]ed this [illegible]tee of 15 [illegible]ent citi[illegible]ore than a year ago to [illegible]e condition of civil rights [illegible] country.

[illegible]s report made several [illegible] ago, the committee said [illegible]e made much progress in [illegible]ing civil rights but have far [illegible] Truman, in his message ask[illegible]g more laws to protect civil [illegible], based his ideas on what [illegible] report said needs doing.

[illegible] is what the report said in [illegible]about Washington, D. C.:

"The District of Columbia • • • [illegible] graphic illustration of a failure [illegible] democracy. As the seat of our [illegible]al government under the [illegible]nsibility of congress, the failure [illegible] the district is failure of all the [illegible] • • •.

"If he stops in Washington, a [illegible]egro may dine like other men [illegible] the Union station, but as soon [illegible] he steps out into the capital [illegible]e leaves such democratic practices [illegible] behind.

"With very few exceptions, he [illegible] refused service at downtown [illegible]restaurants. He may not attend a [illegible]downtown movie or play, and he [illegible]as to go into the poorer section [illegible] the city to find a night's lodg[illegible]ng.

"THE NEGRO WHO decides to [illegible]ttle in the district must often [illegible] a home in an overcrowded, substandard area. He must often [illegible]take a job below the level of his [illegible]ability.

"He must send his children to [illegible]the inferior public schools set aside for Negroes and entrust his family's health to medical agencies which give inferior service.

"In addition, he must endure the countless daily humiliations that the system of segregation imposes upon the one-third of Washington that is Negro . . ."

"Except where the federal government has made a few independent advances, as in federal employment and the use of federal recreational facilities, racial segregation is rigid.

"It extends to ludicrous extremes. Inconsistencies are evident:

"Constitution Hall, owned by the Daughters of the American Revolution, seats concert audiences without distinction of color, but allows no Negroes on its stage to give regular commercial concerts.

"ON THE OTHER HAND, the commercial legitimate theater (the only theater in town showing Broadway shows) has had Negro actors on its stage but stubbornly refuses to admit Negro patrons."

The report says Negroes are being forced into a few "overcrowded slums" and the Negro public schools are "inferior to white schools in almost every respect."

"The greatest inequalities," says the report, "are evident in Washington's concern for the health of its residents."

There's a hospital here for Negroes only. But the report says:

"Four of the 12 private hospitals in the city do not admit Negro inpatients, and the rest accept only a few in segregated wards. It is peculiarly shocking to find church hospitals practicing discrimination."

In Washington Negroes can ride side-by-side with white people on the street cars and buses.

This is something they can't do south of Washington, for in the southern state Negroes must ride behind white people.

Otherwise, there doesn't seem much difference between the Jim Crow treatment of Negroes in the capital and the southern states which usually are spoken of as the Jim Crow section of America.

TEA AT MARSEILLES

FRESH BLOOD A MUST FOR FREE ENERGY

Do you feel like you are tied to a drag everytime you try to do something? If so, don't let a low blood count hold you down when you may release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Krug Bites Down Hard

THE annual report of the department of the interior is going to shock the hoo-humness out of Americans who happen to see it.

Secretary of Interior Krug says the country's resources are getting toward the bottom of the barrel. Shortest supply is in oil; it's acute already. A shortage of electrical output is pinching industrial expansion. Crop and grazing lands are falling behind in the uneven contest with over-use and erosion. Coal, oil shale and water are potentially adequate for a long time, but as is the case with certain other mineral resources, such as iron ore, there is a shortage of capital investment to make them available—a curt reflection on iron-headed taxation policies.

Meanwhile population is increasing faster than it can support itself. The United States is only a drouth or two away from an empty belly. In other words, it isn't living any longer off the fat of an unexploited continent, but is beginning to consume the meat and bone. It needs to do something immediate and drastic about conservation.

This is honest thinking and appraising, but in the normal course of events it will be labeled something else and filed somewhere out of sight. Americans still believe their resources are inexhaustible and will continue to think so until jarred awake by grim evidence that they were wrong. When that happens they will demand to know why someone didn't tell them. Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug told them early in 1948.

Self-Sacrifice in Britain

IT ISN'T clear what British Conservatives will offer as an alternative to the Labor government's official declaration against further rises in income as the best way to stop inflation.

It looks as if any honest showdown on ways and means of stopping inflation wipes out political differences, because in the United States the position of the conservatives seems to be practically identical with that taken by Prime Minister Attlee's government in Britain.

They agree that the spiral of inflation cannot be broken into and reversed without self-sacrifice all along the economic line, from wage earners to capitalists, from industrial workers to farmers. The only significant difference is that in Britain a Socialist government has dared to say so unequivocally, while in the United States a muddle-minded government is still pussyfooting around the issue, hoping to continue a postwar boom and stop it too—but under no circumstances to alienate the sympathy of the minorities sowing the whirlwind.

Perhaps Washington was waiting for London to be first to declare the obvious truth of the matter, which is that no government—not even a government dedicated to state control—can hope to control inflation unless it is absolutely honest with its citizens about the cause of inflation—their own inordinate greed.

Pilgrims to Palestine

AS THE United Nations advance party prepares to embark for Palestine, there is speculation that Britain may be preparing to withdraw its troops before the May 15 date previously set. Such a move would surely result in large-scale civil war unless international forces move in to maintain order, an unlikely prospect.

At the Palestine commission's organization meeting its chairman, Karel Lisicky, described his group as "five lonely pilgrims" going to Palestine armed only with the UN flag. Secretary General Lie had promised that the UN security council will "assume its full measure of responsibility" to enforce the Holy Land partition, but no step has been taken to carry out that promise.

The sad state of affairs in Palestine is attributable to three causes: United States refusal to indicate whether it will do anything to support partition; western suspicions of Russian intentions in the Holy Land, and the British policy which is keeping the UN commission from officially operating until May 1 instead of allowing it to take over responsibility gradually.

Until the Arabs realize that the UN decision is to be backed with armed authority, until the Zionists see concrete evidence that partition is a reality, there will be no peace in the Holy Land.

They're Not So Impressionable

J. EDGAR HOOVER of the FBI believes the effect of lurid movies and radio programs on young people is overrated.

While not approving improperly and unintelligently prepared presentations, he doubts if the high incidence of juvenile delinquency is attributable to what young people see on the screen and hear on the radio. "One of the motivating desires of man has always been the quest of excitement," he says. "To a degree this can be satisfied through stories and radio programs. Their adventure, excitement and suspense perform a substantial service in preparing youthful listeners to face the real conflicts of adult life."

Juvenile delinquency existed before lurid radio programs. It even existed before Hans Christian Anderson wrote his fairy tales, some of which aren't capsules of sweetness and light.

Sokolsky Presents Views on Prohibition.

THERE are two ways of looking at prohibition. One is that alcohol, like opium, is bad in any form. Even opium is not bad in any form, it and its derivatives being used constantly by physicians. That question we can waive for the discussion because the argument will go on forever as to whether alcohol in any form should be imbibed for other than medicinal purposes. Those who regard it as a sin will always oppose it, those who like alcohol will get hold of it, no matter what laws are passed against it. This country has had so prolonged and disastrous an experience with enforced prohibition that is difficult to understand how anyone can believe that that is the way to achieve temperance.

SOKOLSKY

But there is the other way of dealing with the question of prohibition. It is the way the bootlegger, the black marketeer, the criminal politician deals with prohibition. It is the way the bourbon-drinking—prohibition-talking politician deals with prohibition. They use it to keep themselves in power, to make political hay, while they associate with lawbreakers, with thieves and murderers, with the Al Capones, the "Legs" Diamonds, the "Little Augies" who do their shameless work while they pose as puritans, as so holy that neither whisky nor gin, beer nor wine crosses their lips. These guzzling liars love prohibition, as they love any black market.

Proper View

That is the way the people of this country ought to look at the new prohibition movement, apparently now being advocated by devious methods by President Truman under the stress of sympathy with a starving world. Incidentally, I am told the President's drink is bourbon. I happen to be a teetotaler, so that I have no favorite drink and can speak impartially of any of them.

I do not care whether the American distillers make money or not, but when an American president advocates reducing the American production of any product and then agrees to give to Europeans the exact quantity of raw materials they require to manufacture the same commodity, it becomes obvious that something false is on the podium.

For that is precisely what is happening. The government of the United States is putting every pressure on the American distilleries to close down, to reduce output, not to use wheat. But the same administration agrees to give Europe—for the manufacture of distilled liquors—exactly the amount they, the Europeans, require for distilled liquor. Why give it to Europeans while withholding it from Americans? If we are to reduce the production of distilled liquors, why should the Europeans be permitted to produce distilled liquors, as they please with our grains withheld from our people? When the American distilleries were closed down, neither the Scotch nor the Canadian distilleries were closed down. They made all the liquor they wanted to make and they are sending it into the United States under favorable conditions.

No Others Affected

If we get prohibition, the Canadian and the Scotch distilleries will continue to send it into the United States, legally, illegally, any way they can, as they did in the good old days when Al Capone was king.

That is what has to be watched. Of course, distillers are not the most popular of business men. Many Americans believe that they are manufacturing an unworthy commodity. They would not mind seeing the entire industry wiped out. They do not care what the Europeans or Canadians do so long as we do not do it.

But they miss that what is likely to happen is that a combination of politicians and criminals will fall upon this nation like locusts to despoil it, to wreck its youth, to restore the frowzy morals of the flapper era, to sell poison, to bring on alcoholic blindness, to murder, to kill, to destroy. That is what the gangs did to this country during the prohibition era. That is what they want to do again. That is what politicians think that they can do to keep them in power. And they are using European distress and our deep sympathy as a cover-up.

The Sighing and the Squealing Die

Frankie Sinatra has applied for a license to build a radio station.

That's one way to stay on the air.

Sinatra's popularity has declined in recent months, with the result that today his Hooper rating isn't much larger than his girth.

The trouble is that radio has been invaded by a large number of new crooners, some of whom can even sing.

As a consequence, Sinatra may be forced into the operational end of radio and out of the adenoidal.

Of course, it should be pointed out, in all fairness to Frankie, that there are just as many bobby-socks being worn as ever. It's just that, with the new look, you can't see them.

Texas in Transition

By Raymond Moley

DALLAS — Political changes slowly but inevitably follow economic developments. This is clearly shown in what is happening in Texas.

The state is in the midst of a far-reaching political transition. Nominally, it is a Democratic stronghold. Those who are elected to national, state and local offices are the choice of Democratic conventions and primaries.

But in political, social and economic affairs, Texans run the entire spectrum of opinion. Elected to office, they support measures that range from immovable conservatism to the pink center of New Dealism. They vote the same ticket, but they feud and fight.

MOLEY

It is idle to believe that this situation can last, although it may be some years before two genuinely rival parties will appear. A change must come because almost all the factors which made a one-party system have vanished from Texas.

There is no fear of Negro power in politics, as there is in other southern states. Texas agriculture is not dominated by a single crop. Nor is agriculture all-important, because a vast industrial development is already present. Texas cities are vital, progressive, wealthy and growing at a tremendous rate. The state has an enormous interest in foreign trade.

These factors are all contributing to the ordeal of the Democratic party in the state. Allen Duckworth of the Dallas Morning News says in the 'Southwest Review': "The strength of the Democratic party in Texas has become its greatest weakness. It is strangling itself in the coils of a self-imposed political monopoly. By eliminating effective opposition, the party has become a public utility with little power to govern itself and practically no control over the rank and file of voters who cast their ballots in the Democratic column."

Party Only An Instrument

The Democratic party, therefore, is not a collection of like-minded people. It is an instrument—the only instrument—by which government can be carried on. But after officials are elected through the mechanism of the party, they go their several ways.

W. Lee O'Daniel, after election to the senate, moved to the extreme right in that body. The two Nestors of Texas politics, John N. Garner and Hatton W. Sumners, find escape in broad philosophic perspective on life and government in general. The present governor, Beauford Jester, prevailed over the left-wing Homer P. Rainey in a great conservative victory.

Jester paid his party a doubtful compliment. He said he always voted his party ticket "although I sometimes had to hold my nose." A lot of Texas noses have been held in national elections since 1936.

The Republican party in Texas is small and bitterly torn by dissension. Much of the machinery of that party is held by a rather small group of leaders who claim they are seeking to build it up but who are, according to their opponents, trying to keep the party weak and manageable. Its delegates to national conventions are selected by methods that are almost wholly unprovided for in the election laws. This is not a question of illegality. It is due to the fact that the election laws provide almost wholly for the Democratic party.

Insurgent Movement

At the moment, Republican National Committeeman Robert B. Creager makes it clear that he is trying to enlarge the party, and that he hopes a national Republican victory will greatly aid that purpose. He has on his hands, however, a powerful insurgent movement which centers in Dallas. He is also confronted with a division between those who favor Taft and those who favor Dewey, with Stassen steadily gaining strength.

The first step toward building up a real two-party system in Texas would appear to be a drastic revision of the laws dealing with primaries, conventions and elections. The next would be a pacified Republican party, organized down to the grass roots in the counties. The third would be the emergence of vital young men and women of both parties who are determined to win for this state a political system in keeping with its massive importance in the economic life of the nation.

License Plates

The American Automobile association reports that there is one faint sign of uniformity in the license plates being issued for 1948. Seventeen states and Canadian provinces have chosen an aluminum color and 18 have chosen black.

The association, which believes there might be some logic in the states' adopting similar regulations for plates, said 40 of the 60 states, provinces and territories surveyed required two plates on a car, the rest one; four states have permanent plates with date insert tabs; two will use 1947 plates with 1948 tabs, and Washington will use 1947 plates with a windshield sticker.

Renewal dates stretch from one end of the year to the other.

Are the Americas Forgotten?

By Walter Lippmann

THERE is a widespread feeling among our neighbors in this hemisphere that we have become so interested in European recovery that we have forgotten them. The truth of the matter is that they have not been forgotten; the protection of their vital interests is an integral and a principal part of the Marshall plan.

If they do not realize that, then they have been, though not forgotten, in some measure neglected. The immense significance of the Marshall plan to the Western Hemisphere could readily have been explained and demonstrated to their representatives in the capitals of Latin America. If that has not been done, it must be due to the fact that Mr. Marshall, Mr. Lovett and Mr. Armour are three men, and not, unfortunately, at least 10 men.

LIPPMANN

The basic figures of the program show that in the first 15 months, 2.6 billion dollars are called for in order to pay for exports to western Europe from Canada and the the Latin-American countries. This is a very sizable part of the whole program, so large a part indeed that Mr. Hoover would like to cut it out.

But it is an essential factor in the program. It is essential to the recovery of Europe. It is essential to the recovery of the whole Western Hemisphere.

For Europe must have grain and timber from Canada, grain from Argentina, fats and oils from Brazil, sugar from Cuba, nitrates from Chile. But Europe now lacks the dollars to pay for these commodities. Europe lacks also the manufactured goods which the Latin-American countries need so badly and would like to receive in return for their exports. As things are now, Latin America cannot get goods from Europe, and it cannot get dollars from Europe to buy what it needs in the United States.

Two Western Needs

Therefore, the Western Hemisphere countries urgently need two things. They need dollars for what they can send only to Europe and Europe can obtain only from them, and they need the revival of the European export industries in order that they may be able to obtain the capital goods they must have if they are to develop and raise their standard of life.

The Marshall plan is designed to do both of these things: To provide them immediately with the most necessary dollars and in the course of the next four years with the means of obtaining capital goods from Europe.

There are Pan-American isolationists both here and in other American republics who say why not forget Europe and instead concentrate on financing directly trade and capital investment between the United States and Latin America? The answer to this is that any such policy would destroy the economic independence of Latin America, and inevitably as the consequence much of its political independence.

For if Latin America, which is entering upon a great and promising period of industrial development, were to depend entirely or almost entirely on capital goods made in the United States, how would it pay for them?

The United States cannot buy all the agricultural surpluses and all the raw materials of the hemisphere. It cannot use them all. Therefore, the only way the industrial development of Latin America could be financed would be by concessions in the old-fashioned colonial and imperial style.

Marshall Plan Needed

No American, North, South or Central, Spanish-speaking, Portugese-speaking or English-speaking, wants that to happen. Yet that would have to happen if, instead of restoring the triangular trade among Europe, the United States, and Latin America, we went in for Pan-American isolationism and sought to make the bulk of the trade run north and south.

The truth is that without the Marshall plan the foundations of the inter-American system would be undermined. The glory of that system is that so many nations, unequal in size, power and wealth, can live together but independently within it.

The system is unique in the history of nations. That it came to be at all, and that it works, is due no doubt in the last analysis to the fact that all the American republics are deeply inter-imperialist because all have won their independence by successful rebellion against imperial powers.

But that they have remained independent, that the larger ones have not overwhelmed the smaller, is due in great part to the fact that the economic and the cultural connections of each republic are not confined within the hemisphere but reach across the oceans to Europe and to the outer world.

The spirit of independence feeds upon these connections. If they were broken irretrievably, if they cannot be restored, as we hope to restore them by the execution of the Marshall plan, we should soon find that the inter-American system would languish. It would become a closed system, and in that crowded, narrowed and unequal condition, there would be lost that spirit of independence which is its energy and its reason.

The Once Over

Caution to Snowstorms: Detour Ahead

Within three years science will be able to cut up or detour snow and rain storms, putting big cities Dr. Irving Langmuir of General Electric says. It will be possible to steer to sparsely populated areas. But, oh what a howl will go up from the small town when it finds itself buried in a snowstorm transferred from a big burg!

PHILLIPS

We don't think the little community will take it lying down. Every village will have to perfect its own switcher-backer corps to rush into the skies and smack the storm right back where it came from.

This could result in a regular hockey game of the skies with snowstorms being swatted all over the heavens. It might require official referees and scorers to determine what kind of winter had been through.

* * *

Imagine winning a winter in points or a split decision!

* * *

Dr. Langmuir says that all the recent experiences with dry ice pellets in producing artificial rain and snow have had behind them the idea of fighting storms, and that science is close to discovering how to switch a storm from one spot to another. It is almost possible at the moment to "seed" a storm and pull the trick on it before it has a goal, but detouring is more of a problem.

* * *

Personally we do not wish Dr. Langmuir much luck, and we warn General Electric that it is on the way to a boycott by all children with a secondary boycott by lovers of "Wishing for a White Christmas" and Currier & Ives prints.

* * *

The kids are more or less disgusted with the grownups now. They really will get tough the day a right smart snowstorm is known to be headed for their own backyard and a lot of scientists pop into the air and see that it is transferred to Wappingers Falls or Moss Hollow.

* * *

"The heavy snowfall which was due to strike this area yesterday was intercepted outside the town by arrangement with General Electric and re-routed. Snowstorms have met with so much interference that they may ignore the locality completely," the forecaster says. When that weather report appears in the papers watch for the children to revolt.

* * *

With rain in the summer season it will be different. If the scientists want to detour a downpour on the day of the summer outing okay. But on snow we stand with Whittier, Longfellow, Boreas and Irving Berlin.

Aladdin Lamp Rubber

John H. Levi died down in Miami Beach the other day, and he was close to the last of the colorful men who figured in the fantastic story of the building of the tropical resort. It is hard to believe that a little more than thirty years ago the beach was a mangrove swamp. Levi was with the boat company that had sold Carl Fisher a cruiser. Levi was assigned to deliver it to Fisher at New Orleans. Instead he delivered it at Jacksonville, as we recall the story. The Fisher boarded it and they cruised down to the Keys.

* * *

Anchored off the desolate swamp that is now Miami Beach, Fisher began to dream of a winter resort there. And when he dreamed he acted. The story of how Fisher rooted out the mangroves, pumped in billions of gallons of sea sand, built bridges from the mainland and raised a city of fine streets, golf courses, homes and hotels is right out of Arabian Nights. Levi was among his right hand men and never left the place.

Now that there are 214 francs to the dollar we would hate to have to lift enough money to pay for a ride in a Paris taxi.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: I don't think the fact of being a new year will make much difference in this neck of the woods.

The road past my place will keep on being an invitation to sudden death because it was laid out by a knuckle-head who forgot what happens when two tons of steel hurtling in one direction meets two tons hurtling in the other direction in a head-on collision. Or perhaps I should say it was permitted to be laid out that way by a lot of other knuckle-heads who'd rather do something wrong to save a little money than to do it right and save a lot of money.

I see no reason to think local politics will be any better. We have got rid of a collection of good and bad ones, mostly bad ones, and acquired a new set in which the good and bad ones will be in about the same ratio. The best we can hope for is that some of the good ones may turn out real good and that the bonding companies will remain solvent, to take care of the others.

There is no reason to hope for any improvement in the weather. We don't appreciate it, but we have had just about 10 years of far better weather in this part of the country than we can expect to have for another 10 years. There will be early and late frosts. We will have too much and too little rainfall. The winds will blow, there will be flash floods and dust storms just like always.

Another place where things will be so different is human nature. It will be either good, bad or a mixture. Some mothers and fathers will abandon their children, others will give their lives for them. Most of us will not be properly grateful for what is done for us. Others will behave like saints. I expect there will be the usual percentage of sword rattlers, including the worst kind—the ones who do not realize what they are doing. We'll continue to have intolerance and intolerance in about the same proportion.

One of the things we worry about is the people who hunt and fish out of season. Nobody seems to know what to do about them, except catch them occasionally, which doesn't do any good. I speak with reluctance on this subject because if I had all the rabbits I've shot out of season laid end to end and dyed like mink I could get your Aunt Effie a new mink coat for every year of her life. I also have been known to catch fish out of season, on the sound argument that you never know what you may catch when you go fishing and the burden of guilt, therefore, is on the fish.

I expect we'll have about as many fires started by carelessness as usual, lights will go out during electrical storms, back roads will not be kept in good repair, and there will be a certain amount of skulduggery in counting votes in every election. The customary number of men and women will go berserk and try to kill someone, usually succeeding. Probably two or three farmers will be killed and maimed by bulls that they trusted too far and a good many more thereof will be caught under upset tractors and various kinds of farm machinery. All these things are to be expected during 1948 along with all the things that will make us glow with pride and satisfaction. There's nothing we can do about it.

Corton Corners. Uncle George.

Do You Have Noisy Neighbors?

A lot of the neighbors were suddenly annoyed by Jeb Crowell's hammering at night. Jeb was building himself a new front porch—and the only time that he could give to it was after sundown.

Finally we decided the best thing to do was all pitch in and help—and get the carpentry over with as soon as possible. We did. Finished the porch next evening—and Jeb gratefully treated us to ice cold beer and cider.

From where I sit, that's what being a good neighbor means. Instead of complaining about the other fellow's habits, try to understand and share his interests.

So if my practising on the flute annoys you, come on over, neighbor, with your fiddle or guitar and join me! Maybe it will end up in our knowing and appreciating one another better ... in an evening of good fellowship. And I'll promise to provide the beer that goes with evenings of good fellowship!

LUCK PRESENT IN ACCIDENTS

19 Persons Endangered in 2 Traffic Mishaps; Only One Is Hurt.

Two accidents occurred yesterday which placed the lives of 19 people in danger but resulted in only one minor injury, state highway patrolmen reported today.

When William George, 38 of Youngstown changed his mind after starting to drive his car into a service station on route 42 in Ashley he apparently did not notice Lawrence O'Neill, 37, Greyhound bus driver of Columbus, was passing him with his bus O'Neill's 15 passengers got an unexpected shock when George pulled his car into the path of the bus and before O'Neill could slow down the two vehicles had collided.

The left side of the George car was badly damaged, the front of the bus only slightly. Patrolmen answered the call at 8 30 p. m.

Car Hits Train

William E. Sell, 22, and Evelyn Casey, 19, both of Bucyrus, narrowly escaped death early yesterday when Sell's car slid into a New York Central freight train at the Erie crossing near the junction of routes 98 and 30 southeast of Marion.

Sell, an O.S.U. student, and Miss Casey were returning from a show in Columbus. They said they did not see the train in time to stop on the icy road because no warning signals were in operation at the crossing.

Miss Casey suffered a dislocated shoulder and was taken by a passing motorist to Bucyrus hospital. She was released late yesterday. Sell escaped injury. His car was demolished. Highway patrolmen from Marion sub-station investigating the accident answered the call at 12:30 a. m. Wednesday.

Drivers Arrested

Two Marion men were arrested late yesterday by highway patrolmen on charges of traffic violations. They were Edwin O. Mayse, 23, of 224 Reed avenue, charged with having no muffler on his car, and Charles Albert Gallaher, 53, of 213 Benton P'ace charged with failure to stop at the stop sign at the intersection of state route 4 and 23 north of the city. When arraigned before Judge Hazen in municipal court this morning Gallaher pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and cost.

Mayse was also before Judge Hazen tomorrow morning.

OFFICERS PREDICT LOTTERY CLEANUP

By The United Press

CLEVELAND, Feb 5 — Police continued today to comb through piles of records seized in a raid on an Alliance printing company and expressed confidence that the documents would produce enough evidence to clean up "once and for all" a vast lottery scheme in Ohio.

The records, along with thousands of lottery tickets, were seized by police Tuesday in the raid on the printing concern. The raid was led by Cleveland police after they came into possession of a purse lost by a Cleveland woman in which lottery tickets were found.

Police said that evidence already checked has supplied them with names and addresses of all Cleveland distributors and sufficient data to interest the bureau of internal revenue in checking income tax returns of principal operators.

There also is evidence, police said, that some of the tickets were shipped across state lines, a fact that could bring prosecution under federal lottery laws.

British Museum To Get Wrights' "Kitty Hawk"

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Feb. 5 — The Army air plane which made the first successful airplane flight in history, the property of the late Wilbur Wright, was presented to the British museum today by its executor, Orville Wright.

The controversy about who built which plane, properties of the "Kitty Hawk" the frail craft which Orville and his brother Wilbur flew on Dec. 17, 1903, was resolved in the will of Orville, who died last Friday.

It was disclosed today, when the will was admitted for probate that Wright had bequeathed the plane to the science museum at Kensington, England, where it has been since 1928.

Orville sent the plane to the museum as the result of a controversy with Dr Charles D. Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian institution. He accused Smithsonian officials of discrediting the Wright brothers as aviation pioneers.

Favor Bond Issue For New Bucyrus City Hall

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — With one dissenting vote, that expressed by Councilman Victor Vollrath, the special committee assigned to make recommendations on a proposed city hall building project, Tuesday night recommended that the city place a bond issue before voters at the November election. Such a building propject would cost between $135,000 and $150,000. Councilman Bruce Sharrock, chairman of the committee, advised.

Vollrath supported his stand, explaining that it would be more economical to board out its city prisoners than to build a jail and general city building at the current high prices. Other city departments, he said, could continue to operate satisfactorily in the present quarters.

Commenting on the bank loan situation, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder indicated that the government is going slowly on debt retirement for fear of throwing too much money out of circulation.

The strength and stamina of portland cement concrete pavement enables it to give long years of all-weather service under the heaviest traffic.

For all but the lighter traffic, concrete pavement usually costs less to build than any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity.

Although the smooth-riding and all-weather safety of concrete generally attracts the heaviest traffic, records show that annual maintenance costs of concrete pavement are generally lower than for other types of paving.

Low first cost, low maintenance expense and long life mean low annual cost—the reason why concrete is the logical pavement for new principal urban highways and streets.

OIL PRODUCTION AT ALL TIME HIGH BUT YOUR HELP STILL NEEDED

WILL YOU HAVE ENOUGH FUEL OIL AND KEROSENE to last out the winter? The answer to that depends in large part on you.

Here is the problem that must be faced by every fuel oil user. Over a million new oil burners are using 2,500,000,000 more gallons than in 1941. The over-all demand for oil products has increased by 20 billion gallons over the biggest pre-war year.

Oil is being asked to do more all the time. The petroleum industry is working around the clock to meet your demands... to rush crude oil to refineries then on to you. Over 4 billion dollars are being spent to find new sources of supply, expand refinery facilities and provide faster methods of transportation. But, as in many industries, this expansion program of the Oil Industry is seriously hampered by a shortage of materials. Only time can correct this situation.

Meanwhile, every fuel oil user should do everything possible to stretch the available supply. If everyone saves... there will be enough for all. The greater your cooperation now—the surer you will be of an adequate supply for the rest of this winter.

4 ways you can help save fuel oil... and money, too!

1. Keep temperature at moderate level—not more than 68 degrees. Turn thermostat to 60 or below at night.

2. Keep doors, windows closed, shades drawn. Close off unused rooms.

3. Install storm windows and insulation to keep heat in... cold out.

4. Have your heating system checked to be sure you're getting the most efficient use of your fuel oil.

If everyone saves... there will be enough for all

Research Reveals Important Facts About Thyroid Cancer

By PAUL F. ELLIS
United Press Science Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—Research treatment of thyroid cancer has disclosed the significant fact that the cells of thyroid cancers are in two classes. One is called "left-of-center," the other "right-of-center."

Such a description was given by one of the scientists of the "thyroid team" at New York's Memorial hospital for cancer and allied diseases.

The difference between the two groups, he said, is simple. The "lefties" are those that grow wildly, far different from the original thyroid tissue. The "rightists" are more conservative, he said. They follow the pattern of the original thyroid tissue and therefore are the ones that tend to function as the parent gland.

Those who have thyroid cancer may consider themselves lucky if their cancer is in the "rightist" group. Only about 15 per cent of thyroid cancer patients are in this group and they can be helped with radioactive iodine, a by-product of the atomic energy ovens at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Thyroid Gland Is Small

The thyroid gland is located just below the Adam's apple in the neck and weighs barely an ounce. It has the all important duty of manufacturing a compound which is active in regulating the utilization of oxygen for human needs.

The thyroid makes the compound thyroxin from iodine which is picked up from the blood stream.

The Memorial hospital "thyroid team," composed of physicists, chemists, internal medicine experts, pathologists and technicians, is studying the thyroid and its relation to radioactive iodine from all angles.

The team is treating only the most carefully selected patients, some of whom have the most serious type of thyroid cancer.

In studies at Memorial and other hospitals including Massachusetts General hospital, Boston, which is cooperating in the Memorial project, it has been found that "left of center" cancers that have spread from the neck can be made in some cases to pick up iodine.

Such a phenomenon has occurred in some cases following complete removal of the original gland by surgery or by massive doses of radioactive iodine. In a significant number of cases the cancerous thyroid tissue that had spread to other parts of the body began to collect iodine.

Two Theories Advanced

There have been two theories advanced on what makes the spreading tumors show an increased capacity to collect radioactive iodine. The first theory is that the normal thyroid in the neck was "stealing" all the iodine that was being taken by the patient, leaving little or none for the distant tumors. The other theory is that removal of the original gland created a need for thyroid hormone to which the distant cancer responded by attempting to assume the function of the parent gland.

The Memorial scientists presently do not know which theory, if either, is correct, but are hoping that the second theory is right. If such a theory can be proved to be correct, then a most important step in cancer research will have been made. That would mean that a certain cancerous growth could be made to revert toward a normal function.

Women of Moose Meet at Lodge Hall

The Academy of Friendship chapter night of Women of the Moose was held Tuesday night at the lodge hall with Mrs. Marie Forman presiding. Escorts were members of the Academy chapter, and a gift was presented each. Nominations and installation were held for Mrs. Lucile Powell, organ. Mrs. Priscilla Connell, secretary, and Mrs. Caroline Ehlman, regent. Two life memberships were awarded Mrs. Frances Brown and Mrs. Emma Slagle. A program included songs by the Women of the Moose quartet, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Lillian Cook, Mrs. Ruth Wenner and Mrs. Isabelle Kirk. Table decorations were in gold and blue, friendship colors. An expression of appreciation was made to Marion Lodge No. 889 Loyal Order of Moose, for putting on the recent "birthday" dinner event for the women's group.

Announcement was made of a paper drive conducted by Women of the Moose, with deliveries of papers and magazines donated to be made to Mrs. Eugene Martin at 376 Quarry street.

JUNIOR HI-Y CLUB MEETS

A description of college life at one of the nation's largest colleges, the University of Michigan, was given by Miss Barbara Fralick of Marion at a talk before the ninth grade Junior Hi-Y club of Central Junior High school at the Y Monday night. Miss Fralick is home on vacation from the University of Michigan but expects to return to the school shortly to continue work on a master's degree in education. She is on leave of absence from the Central Junior High school faculty.

Although the number of U.S. families increased 175 per cent between 1890 and 1940, the total population gained only 110 per cent.

Scouts Hold Reunion With Parents as Guests

Group singing was led by Fred Lacey with Mrs. John Lacey at the piano, and moving pictures taken on the trip were shown with the narration by Karl Beechtle, Marion district advancement chairman.

The Boy Scouts who participated in the trip, the purpose of which was to test the training given them, were Roger Bastian, Wert Robinson, Robert Rinnert, Fred Lacey, Wallace Musgrave, Walter Beechtle, James Wanner, Dick Bracy and Vern Orth, all of Marion, and Russell Price and Richard Hale of Upper Sandusky. They were accompanied on the trip by Karl Beechtle and Orien Meadows, Field Scout executive.

Hugh P. Hoy, Scout executive, and Mrs. Hoy were present as guests.

RAIL CROSSING MEETING SET

Grade Elimination Proposal for Marion on Conference Program Feb. 25.

Marion's most ambitious city betterment project, a proposal for elimination of railroad grade crossings, may move one step toward realization when engineers J. P. Moffatt of the Pennsylvania line and L. T. Nuttall of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroads or their representatives meet with Mayor Harry L. Dowler and Chamber of Commerce representatives Feb. 25 to present the railway companies' plans for doing away with grade crossings on the city's West Side.

A proposed solution of the grade crossing problems likely to be considered when the conference is held at the Chamber of Commerce office calls for alteration of the approach of both railways to the city so that the tracks would parallel each other, forming one right-of-way through Marion from north to south.

The next phase of the solution must be the elimination of existing crossings of the railroad right-of-way at Bellefontaine avenue, Columbia, Center and Silver streets.

This may be done by one of two methods: overhead bridges spanning the tracks or by underpasses tunneled under the tracks. Overhead bridges require less excavation and Chamber of Commerce representatives believe this solution may be considered by the railroad engineers.

Cost of the project has been estimated at $10,000,000.

Beneficial Both Ways

Chamber of Commerce spokesmen say the project would be beneficial to the railroads, as well as to the city, by diminishing the grade of the right-of-way approaching the city, and eliminating the junction crossover at Union station. The present grades of the railroads are of such elevation as to make operation of long trains difficult, and when such trains must at present stop in Marion, starting them is both difficult and expensive. Chamber officials believe that the improvement in operating conditions would rapidly repay the railroads for their investment, hence their cooperation is solicited.

Mayor Dowler, Safety-Service Director E. O. Uncapher, City Engineer Thomas Cathers, Project Committee Chairman Floyd Browne, Chamber of Commerce President Robert T. Mason, and Chamber Secretary Hugh E. Webster will represent the city and civic groups at the meeting.

Postal Inspector Here Warns Against "Old Spanish Swindle"

Residents of Marion and vicinity were warned today by local Post Office Inspector R. C. Alexander against falling for the "Old Spanish Swindle," a get-rich-quick dodge said to have been revived recently by fraudulent operators.

Residents of this section of the country have received numerous letters containing these fake offers of large rewards for a few thousand dollars investment, Mr. Alexander said.

The customary letter reads as follows:

Mr. Jonathan A. Doe
St. Edward, Nebr.,
U. S. A.

Dear Sir:

A person who knows you and who has spoken very highly about you, has made me trust you a very delicate matter of which depends the entire future of my dear daughter, as well as my very existence.

I am in prison, sentenced for bankruptcy, and I wish to know if you are willing to help me to save the sum of $375,000.00 U. S. Cy. (THREE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS) which I have in bank bills hidden in a secret compartment of a trunk that is now deposited in a Customhouse in the United States.

As soon as I send you undeniable evidence, it is necessary for to come here and pay the expenses incurred in connection with my process so the embargo on my suitcases can be lifted, one of which suitcases contains a baggage check that was given to me at the time of checking my trunk for North America and which trunk contains the sum above said. To compensate you for all your troubles, I will give you the THIRD PART OF SAID SUM.

Due to serious reasons which you will know later, please reply via AIR-MAIL. I beg you to treat this matter with the utmost reserve and discretion. Fearing that this letter might have gone astray and not reach your hands, I will not sign my name until I hear from you, and then I will entrust you with all my secret. For the time being I am only signing "M."

Due to the face that I am in charge of the prison School, I can write you like this and entirely at liberty.

I can not receive your reply directly in this prison, so in case you accept my proposition, please air-mail your letter to a person of my entire trust who will deliver it to me safely and rapidly. This is his name and address:

Sr. Jose Cueto
Calle de Donceles No. 40
Mexico City, Mexico

Ordinarily, reply to the above will bring a three-page letter, together with fake newspaper clippings and legal papers intended to substantiate the story and to arrange for receipt of the victim in Mexico. Swindlers are currently selecting names and addresses from "Who's Who in America" and from lists of professional people, particularly doctors and dentists.

Mr. Alexander requests that any person receiving such a letter promptly get in touch with him at the Marion post office.

Anemia Caused by the Loss of Blood

Though tiny — 7/25,000 of an inch in diameter—the blood's red cells are among the most remarkable and important of the body's structures. On them our life ultimately depends because they are the carriers of essential oxygen to all the tissues.

Perhaps because they work so hard, the life span of these little cells is short—only about three weeks. Normally they die and are replaced at the rate of about one million daily.

When they die off faster than this or form more slowly, their number is deficient for the work they have to do, and the condition known to medicine as anemia exists. It may also be brought about by loss of blood from the body through accident or disease.

Though there are dozens of different factors which operate to bring about anemia, all may be grouped under one of these three groups—loss of blood, excessive destruction of red cells or impaired blood formation. The treatment of anemia, therefore, depends on which of these three basic causes is at the root of the condition.

In the present article I shall discuss the anemia due to blood loss. Now blood loss may be sudden and massive, as from an injury, or gradual and seeping, as from piles or stomach ulcer. In either case, since there is no disease of the blood involved, red cells are normal in size but their number is definitely below par.

In all cases where there is loss of blood, the first and most important thing to do is to stop the bleeding. If it is due to an injury which tears a large blood vessel, it may be feasible to stop the bleeding by applying a tourniquet. Sometimes, bleeding can only be stopped by operation.

When the bleeding occurs from piles or hemorrhoids, or from an ulcer of the stomach or in the intestine, the important thing again is to make every effort to stop the bleeding. In both of these conditions, the blood must be replaced by a blood transfusion if the amount lost is excessive. If whole blood is not immediately available, then the fluid part of the blood or plasma is injected into a vein, until blood of a proper type is available for transfusion. Plasma is now present and readily available in every hospital in the country.

In addition to stopping the bleeding and giving blood and plasma, it is frequently necessary to give preparations containing iron by mouth, since iron is one of the chief constituents of the blood's red cells. Some of the commoner ones are Blaud's pills, iron sulfate, and iron glutonate. In some cases, crude liver extracts have also been used effectively.

Proper diet also plays an important role in the treatment of anemia. It should include liver, red meat, vegetables such as carrots, beets, and spinach; fruits, such as prunes and apricots; eggs and whole grain cereals.

The discussion of anemias due to excessive destruction of blood cells, and those due to faulty formation of the blood cells will be taken up at a future date.

Questions and Answers

M. A.: Is it possible for the diabetic to do hard work from 5 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Answer: It is possible for a diabetic to do a great deal of physical work, as long as he is receiving proper treatment in the form of the right diet and injections of insulin.

Yessir! . . . She knows a bargain when she sees one

YES . . . bargains are her business—the business of every American housewife. She always looks for the best quality and performance she can find, and at the most reasonable prices.

So she knows she's found a bargain in her water supply. For, where else could she find a household necessity that gives so much for so little?

Yessir—it's a bargain, when the average family of four gets all the water it needs to bathe, cook, clean, and launder, for as little as five cents a day.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

...like putting my hands up ... head to stop its whirling. ... father finished telling us ... the attempts Otto, Olga's ... son, would be making ... the mysterious woman ... his mistress to get hold ... royal seal and hand- ... in order to convince the ... of Transvania who had ... retainers that she was ... champion of their exiled ...

... had known these things be- ... why, knowing this, had ... father asked Olga to send ... specimens of her handwrit- ... a number of sheets of her ... paper and envelopes, bearing ... royal crest upon them.

... spelled forging of her hand- ... I gave up the puzzle, and ... back to watching my father, ... a side glance at my hus- ... and at Harry Underwood. ... faces of both men were strict- ... poker." But there was a glint ... the eyes of both of them that ... me they were mentally ceho- ... my bewilderment.

"You are wondering, of course," ... said, with just the wraith of a ... smile touching his lips. "why, ... possessing this knowledge I should ... request Olga to send me speci- ... of her handwriting, and a ... of her stationary bearing ... royal crest, a request which ... on all only forgery."

He paused and gave us a steady ... I knew that he was dis- ... tinctly enjoying himself, and was ... sure that Dicky and Harry Under- ... wood shared my knowledge.

"It does spell forgery," he said, ... after a pause. "I am turning these ... papers over to a person who can ... use them to make this friend of ... Laura's mistress believe that they ... were come from Queen Olga."

He let that sink in, and I drew ... a breath of relief as I realized ... that the forged letters from Olga, ... whatever they might contain, were ... to be used into trapping the mys- ... terious woman who intended to ... carry out Otto's traitorous scheme ... on him.

Then another doubt assailed me ... If his words meant anything, they ... meant that the papers of Olga's ... were to be turned over to some ... person who was on such terms ... with this mysterious and evil wo- ... man that the friend of Otto's ... mistress would believe the letters ... were genuine. That meant inti- ... macy. Was it possible that such a ... person could be trusted with so ... momentous and so dangerous a ... task?

"I am afraid," my father said ... next with his smile no longer a ... wraith, "that you are thinking I ... am dipping into something danger- ... ous. But wait until I explain.

"Mr. 'K' came to me the other ... day with information that in- ... trigued and interested me," my fa- ... ther went on. "For several years ... he has known a most amazing ... woman, brilliant, able, who, ... though born in the South Ameri- ... can country where Otto and Laura ... live, was brought as an infant ... to this country where her father ... had a post in the embassy for ... many years.

"All her education was received ... in this country," he went on, "and ... after her father left the embassy ... and went back to his own country, ... she took out citizenship papers ... here.

"'K' says she is more fiercely ... American than a native would be, ... and while she did not see active ... service, she worked through the ... war in one of the most important ... services which required brains, ... ability and discretion. She gave up ... a brilliant journalistic position in ... order to take over the work, and ... she is now doing free lance maga- ... zine work together with a radio ... broadcast.

"All in all, she is a most de- ... sirable person for the scheme I ... have in mind," he went on, "and ... when 'K' told me that she always ... has kept in touch with her fam- ... ily by long trips down there, and ... thus is familiar with the set-up, ... there, and that she knows Otto, ... Laura, and their mysterious friend ... very well, although she secretly ... despises them, I immediately asked ... him to bring her over here. She ... seems made to order for what I ... want done."

The knocker sounded a period to ... his speech and my father glanced ... at his wrist watch.

"I imagine that is 'K' now," ... he said.

ONLY THE BEST EGGS GO TO KROGER

THE LITTLE RED HEN SAYS:

"Eggs! Handle with care!" Now that makes sense. Lots of things can happen to eggs—and do. But Kroger makes sure the eggs they put in Kroger cartons are U.S. Grade A, candled, and rushed to you fast. Refrigerated, too. Whites are clear and thick—not runny. Yolks are round—not flat. Fact is, Kroger Eggs are as good as when they left my nest.

Former Marion Man's New Literary Test Idea Written Up in Magazine

Featured in a section of the magazine Time this week is an account of the work of a former Marion man, Albert E. Sindlinger, who is making an original idea pay dividends in the field of literary composition.

The arucle, entitled "You Too Can Help Write a Book," deals with Mr. Sindlinger's organization for the development of stories and new story ideas through a Gallup poll-like enterprise for sounding out public opinion on literary creations. In fact, Mr. Sindlinger is a former executive vice president of Dr Gallup's Audience Research.

His new organization is a New Entertainment Workshop located at Wynbrook Acres near Hopewell, N. J.

Nearly 20 years ago he was manager of Marion's Palace theater. A little more than 10 years ago, at the age of 30, he had climbed to a position as director for March of Time, a nationally distributed newsreel feature. His new idea for an organization to develop stories for movies, books and plays came to fruition with the establishment of the workshop less than a year ago. With the aim of making "every book a best seller," his technique is through the work of his staff, to "boil down" a submitted manuscript to a one-hour reading which is then recorded.

The records are played in various cities and towns to hand-picked groups who listen to the abbreviated work, then record their impressions on an electronic device. A composite graph indicates the weak spots in the story and the author is called in to make "repairs." Mr. Sindlinger has tested and "bought in on" half a dozen Broadway shows and has found at least three publishers whom he has convinced of the reliability of his method of developing a story that is "sure to sell," it was stated. In addition to this mass testing procedure, he is experimenting also with mass writing by "established writers" and has "editorial staff."

Married Marion Girl

Mr. Sindlinger's parents, Mr and Mrs. C A. Sindlinger, who lived here formerly, are now residents of New Philadelphia. The elder Mr. Sindlinger was at different times superintendent of the Morral and Kirkpatrick schools. A former Marion girl, Miss Thelma Jolliff before her marriage, Mrs. Albert Sindlinger is a daughter of Mrs. Byron Wilson of Wartnington and the late C. B. Jolliff. A brother, Kenneth W. Jolliff, lives at 887 Merkle avenue.

Master Sgt. Harold H. Callahan, Marion serviceman stationed at Bad Tolz, Germany, is spending this week at St. Moritz, Switzerland, where the winter olympics are being held, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. P. F. Callahan of 286 Leader street. He is stationed with chief of staff headquarters of the 1st Infantry division at Bad Tolz.

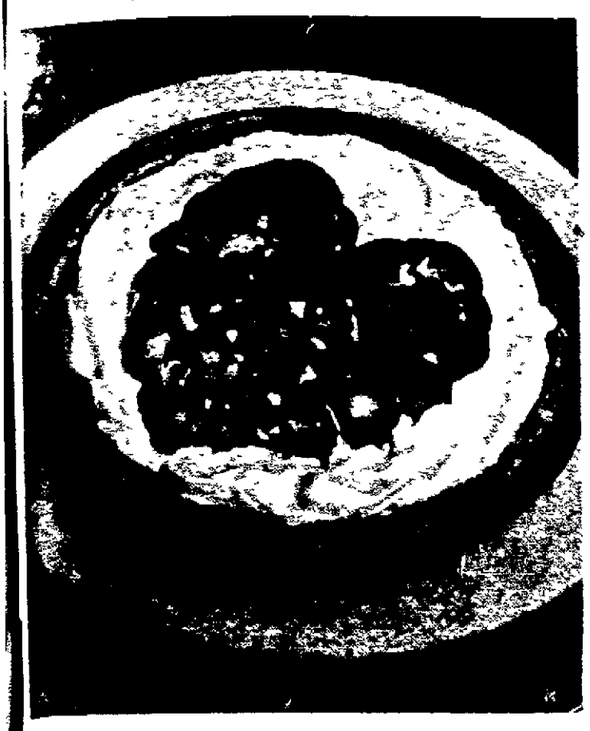
Try a Valentine Pie



HAVE A HEART filled with ice cream and strawberries.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

— a pushover when it comes — ram-cracker pie crusts. Aintact from the pie plate after — e I've heard about is de- — It's simple to shape the — just right, and to do th — portant to pack the crumb — packed crust will hold together so well that — can be lifted out — mixture firmly and evenly — the pie plate or pan. A firmly — packed crust will hold together so well that it can be lifted out — pasting.

An easy way to shape the crust — is to press an 8-inch pie plate on top of the crumb mixture already in the 9-inch pan in which it is to be baked. The upper plate will force the mixture into a firm, even layer on the inner-plate and the rim can be shaped with the index finger.

If a smaller pie plate than the one the crust is to be baked in isn't available then a flat-bottomed cup such as a standard measuring cup, does the best job of pressing the crumb mixture into the pie pan. It's easier to use than the back of a spoon because the cup will press more crumbs at one time.

The tests on this ice cream pie showed that the freezing compartment of the refrigerator should be at the point generally used for keeping ice cream. The pie will keep just about indefinitely at this temperature—though it's too good to last in any household more than a day! Be sure to check before making the pie though, to make sure that the pie plate you plan to use will fit into the freezing unit of your refrigerator.

Valentine Ice Cream Pie

Crust 16 graham crackers finely rolled (1 1/3 cups), 1/4 cup softened butter or fortified margarine 1/4 cup sugar.

Roll graham crackers fine. Place crumbs softened butter or margarine and sugar in a bowl blend together. Mix thoroughly and evenly with hands or fork. Pour crumb mixture into a 9-inch pie plate. Press mixture on bottom and sides of pie plate into a firm layer, shaping into rim around edge of plate. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) about 8 minutes. Cool thoroughly and fill.

Filling: 1 quart vanilla ice cream (purchased or homemade), 1 12-ounce package quick-frozen sliced strawberries.

Turn control on automatic refrigerator to coldest point. Spoon vanilla ice cream into baked graham cracker crust, spreading ice cream against bottom and sides of crust. Place filled pie on coldest shelf in freezing compartment of refrigerator. Thaw strawberries. Remove pie from freezing unit 1/2 to 1 hour before serving. Place drained strawberry slices on ice cream in a heart shaped outline. Fill in center with berries. Return pie to freezing unit until serving time. Serve the remainder of the strawberries and juice as a sauce with the pie. 6 to 8 servings.

Note: The frozen strawberries should be completely thawed before the pie is to be served. The best looking slices should be spooned out into a separate bowl to use as the pie decoration. The berries should not be put on the pie more than an hour or so before serving so they won't refreeze and become hard. In serving the pie it is best to cut it into wedges using a sharp knife and then to use a pie server to lift out the pieces.

Adler and Draper Score Hit With Marion Concert Audience

By EDNA S. DUTTON

A capacity audience was on hand for the two-man show presented by Paul Draper and Larry Adler, artists in their fields of dance and music, last night at the Palace theater.

The harmonica in the magic hands of Adler and the dancing feet of Draper afforded a refreshing change from normal concert routine, original, witty and satisfying, and the audience put its stamp of approval on a program that ranged from Bach to Gershwin and a medley that included such homely musical fare as "The Old Gray Mare."

Mr. Adler's technique and musicianship enables him to do anything whatever on the harmonica, including the production of remarkable color and tumore, with tones resembling the flute, the clarinet, the violin and even the muted trombone. Mr. Draper has at the tip of his toes all the precise beauty of the classic ballet as well as interpreting the ballet type of tap dances, and presented his numbers with sparkling imagination and versatility.

Not to be overlooked was the accompaniments of Ray Gorobetz, whose work at the piano added immeasurably to the evening's entertainment.

Numerous Encores

The concert did not follow the original program but substitutions and changes met with the approval of the audience whose prolonged applause brought the artists back for many encores and [illegible] Mr Adler's playing of 'Good Night Ladies' with Mr Draper tapping out the melody.

The earlier part of the program, given over to ballroom numbers and dance interpretations was [illegible] with lighter numbers following the intermission, and the audience was completely won over when the artists, for their final number asked for suggestions from "out front." Responses brought requests for boogie woogie, waltzes, classical and many other selections.

Mr Adler opened the program with three numbers, 'Praeludium,' from Partitia No 6, which he played unaccompanied, a popular air from the Bach D major suite and "Gavotte," from Partita No 6, also played without accompaniment. This group was followed by Mr. Draper's group of three dances interpreting 'Entrance,' Handel, "Romance," danced to a Schumann composition and "Exit," Gigue-Bach.

Debussy's "Clair de lune," "Meine Stadtele Brilz," arranged by Mr. Adler and "Afternoon of the Faun," Debussy made up Mr Adler's next group and Mr Draper chose a Spanish dance "Malaguena," by Lecuona and 'Dance without Music,' for his second appearance. To close the first half of the program Mr. Adler laid aside the harmonica to accompany Mr. Draper at the piano for an interpretation of Frankie and Johnnie."

Sabre Dance

A [illegible] interpretation of the Sabre Dance from Gayne Ballet Suite by Khatraturian, not only displayed Mr Adler's technique on the harmonica but conveyed to the audience what is expected of an accompanist (and Mr Gorobetz proved it can be done). This, together with 'It Ain't Necessary So' from 'Porgy and Bess,' Gershwin-Heifetz and 'Roumanian Rhapsody No 1,' Enesco-Adler were followed by a humorous interpretation, 'Your Least Favorite Senator Runs for Office,' and a medley of well known tunes tapped out by Mr. Draper. For the close Mr. Adler and Mr. Draper played and danced such favorites as "Missouri Waltz," "Blue Danube," "Night and Day" and other popular numbers.

For his encore numbers Mr. Adler played an improvisation of "When Day Is Done," "Hand to Mouth Boogie," and a free improvisation of Gershwin's "Embraceable You." For the last number Mr Adler played his own accompaniment at the piano.

And for those aspiring to a career as a music artist, the instrument used by Mr. Adler is not an especially made one, it may be duplicated in any good store handling musical instruments.

The artists and their accompanist came to Marion from Pittsburgh yesterday and today left for Mt Vernon and an engagement this weekend in Cleveland.

The concert was the second in the series of programs presented by the Marion Community Concert Association. The next concert will be given early in May.

Crawford Co. Man Youngest Member of State Legislature

Special to The Star

GALION, Feb. 5—The distinction of being the youngest member of the Ohio state legislature belongs to a Galion man—Terry E. Drake, 27, who also lays claim to being the first Republican representative from Crawford county in 18 years. He is now serving his first term as a state lawmaker, having started in January, 1947, at the age of 26.

His yen for lawmaking probably started when he served as supervisor of mail with the bureau of motor vehicles in Columbus, from 1939 to 1942.

Born in Columbus, April 18, 1920, Terry is the son of Mrs. Clara (Boyer) Drake, a former Galion girl. He came to Galion to live in 1935 following the death of his father, the late Wellington B. Drake, a Columbus grocer. In Galion he makes his home with his mother at 402 North Union street.

TERRY DRAKE

After graduation from Galion High school in 1938, he worked at the North Electric Manufacturing Company before going to Columbus in 1939. In April, 1942, he entered the Army, and was honorably discharged in October, 1945, after serving some 32 months overseas.

Recently he made a trip to Washington, D. C., to reminisce with Carl R. Gray Jr., United States administrator of the Veterans Administration under whom Drake served as sergeant and driver in the European war zone when Gray was a major general in the Army.

In the Ohio house of representatives, he is a member of the military affairs committee which did much work on the soldiers' bonus bill.

Drake is co-author of the bill to raise the pay of guards at the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield. He is also co-author of the bill which gave the fair board commission of Crawford county the money which the commissioners received from the federal government for use of the fairgrounds during the war.

A familiar figure around Galion city hall, Drake is interested in city government as well as that of the state. When he isn't spending his time making and studying laws he is selling real estate here. "I like to fish and I also collect stamps," Terry said when asked if he had any hobbies. (Incidentally, Terry is a bachelor—and this is leap year.)

REV. R. E. MAUGANS ON PENSION GROUP PROGRAM

Rev. Robert E. Maugans, pastor of Fite Memorial Baptist church, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Old Age Pension Society of Marion county Friday afternoon in the Eagles' hall. Devotions and patriotic exercises by the group opened the meeting. Music included a duet, "The Love of God," by Christian Ruth and W. E. MAYBE if George "Zoot" Zoeterman were not so hot a pitching prospect, he would have started his Cub career right here in Marion. . . . Zoot is the 18-year-old high school no-hit pitcher whom the Chicago White Sox signed in violation of the high school rule. The Chisox were fined $500 and Zoot was declared a free agent. . . . The Cubs outbid 10 other clubs and got him. He will start with Decatur, Ill., which is a couple of jumps up from the class D Marion Cubs.

THREE OF LAST year's Marion Cubs moved up to the class B Selma Alabama, Cubs, the Chicago office announced today. . . . They are Melvin Nelson, Johnny Smith and Bob Shuford. . . . Nelson, a catcher and outfielder, batted .314 here last year. He's from East Toledo. . . . Smith, a third baseman, hit .321 for the Marion Cubs, including eight triples and a homer. He drove in 52 runs while Nelson brought in 57. . . . Shuford, with the lowest batting average of the three—.323—batted in the most runs, 94. He was moved to the Cubs from Fayetville after 40 or 50 games there. He rapped out 12 homers, three triples and 17 two-basers.

TWO MORE TEAMS have entered the Prospect invitational basketball tournament to be held in Prospect starting Feb. 27, Merle Thomas, tournament director announced today. . . . They are Schlairet Transfer and the Prospect All Stars. . . . Teams which have indicated they'll enter are the Marseilles Ex-Hi's, the Marion Angels, and the Claridon Ex-Hi's. . . . The Caledonia Merchants were the first team to enter. . . . Thomas rates the Claridon Ex-Hi's as pre-tournament favorites.

The first and second prizes have been changed, Thomas said. . . . First prize is $200 and second prize $100. . . . Since the idea of the tournament is to decide what independent team in the Marion area is the best, splitting up of teams to load up with the best players is ruled out. . . . Proceeds of the tournament will go to buy band uniforms for Prospect High school. . . . Only teams from Marion, Wyandot, and Delaware counties are invited to enter. . . . Entries must be in by Feb. 10 and drawings for positions will be held Sunday, Feb. 22, in the Prospect High school.

TED ATKINSON, leading rider at Hialeah Park last winter, is off to a brilliant start this season. He rode 14 winners during the first eight days of the Florida meeting.

Wrestles Bill Murray Tonight

Marion wrestling fans will see a program tonight to rival the splendid one of last Thursday. Last Thursday the armory fans thought the program was the best seen here in years. It will be another double main event card with both matches being ninety minute or the best two out of three falls.

In one of the main go bouts Jack Popenheim who made a host of friends last Thursday in his ninety draw with Renee LaBell will meet another fast boy who has a lot of friends here, Bill Murray, the tall Canadian who stole the show here several weeks ago in two battle royals.

The other main event will be just the opposite for Paul Orth gets another chance at Len Hughes (former Mystery Man). Paul wants the rule book thrown away on this match for he is still smarting from the rough treatment he got last week. They will make their rules at the start and the first one to break these rules, the referee will let the other man do likewise, so the match will likely wind up with nothing barred and with no disqualifications. A prelim will start the show at 8:30. Prices, 50c-75c and $1.00. Call 2745 after six for Ringside seats.—Adv.

B-G GOES DOWN TO WESTERN KENTUCKY

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5—Bowling Green's Falcons are 100 per cent agreed today there's no place like home.

The B-G's, one of the nation's best basketball squads, began the week with a brilliant 17 won-three lost record.

Tuesday they went to Cincinnati to play Xavier's Musketeers. Xavier won 51-49 in an overtime. Last night, at Bowling Green, Ky., Western Kentucky lambasted the Falcons, 66-52.

Earlier, Bowling Green beat both Xavier and Western Kentucky at home. That was the Kentuckians only defeat in 18 previous games.

While the B-G's took a header, Defiance easily turned back Indiana Tech, 68-54; Ohio Northern nipped Detroit Tech, 59-56, when Arden Roberson banged in six points in the last 55 seconds; Ball State of Indiana came from behind to nick Miami, 53-51, and Ohio University's Chillicothe branch dumped Rio Grande, 58-49. The Branch's brother-act—Roy and Claude Taylor—scored 36 points between them.

Western Kentucky and Bowling Green battled evenly in the first half, which ended with Western ahead, 29-27. As the second half opened, O. McKinney connected on a series of tip-ins to shove Western in front, 36-28. The B-G's never could catch up.

Charlie Share, B-G's towering center, and guard Bernie Kubiak fouled out early in the second half. Share none-the-less had 17 points to take game scoring honors.

Miami appeared headed toward an easy victory when Ball State caught fire, overcame a 39-29 deficit and win in the last seconds. Bob Brown, Miami's six foot six inch center popped 24 points.

Newt Oliver of Rio Grande sank eight of nine free throws and five field goals for 18 points at Chillicothe; but his teammates couldn't keep up.

COMSTOCK, MAYERS PACE LOOP SCORING

With only one more game remaining for 10 of the schools in the county and no more for the other two, the chances are that positions in the individual scoring race won't shift much from what they are now.

At the present time, Caledonia's Kenneth Comstock leads the parade with 214 points and has one game to go. Pleasant's Charley Mayers stands second with 204, and the odds are these two high-scorers will end up 1 and 2 as they are now.

Merle Brocklesby of LaRue stands third with 159 and is done with the league play, though he has appeared in but 10 games. He has 159.

Kirkpatrick's center, Jones, can nose out Brocklesby for the third position if he scores three points against Green Camp Friday night. He has 157 in 10 games.

Randy Dickason of Pleasant is three points above Caledonia's tall Gene Fleming, 141 to 138, but Fleming can push up tomorrow, and Dickason is all done.

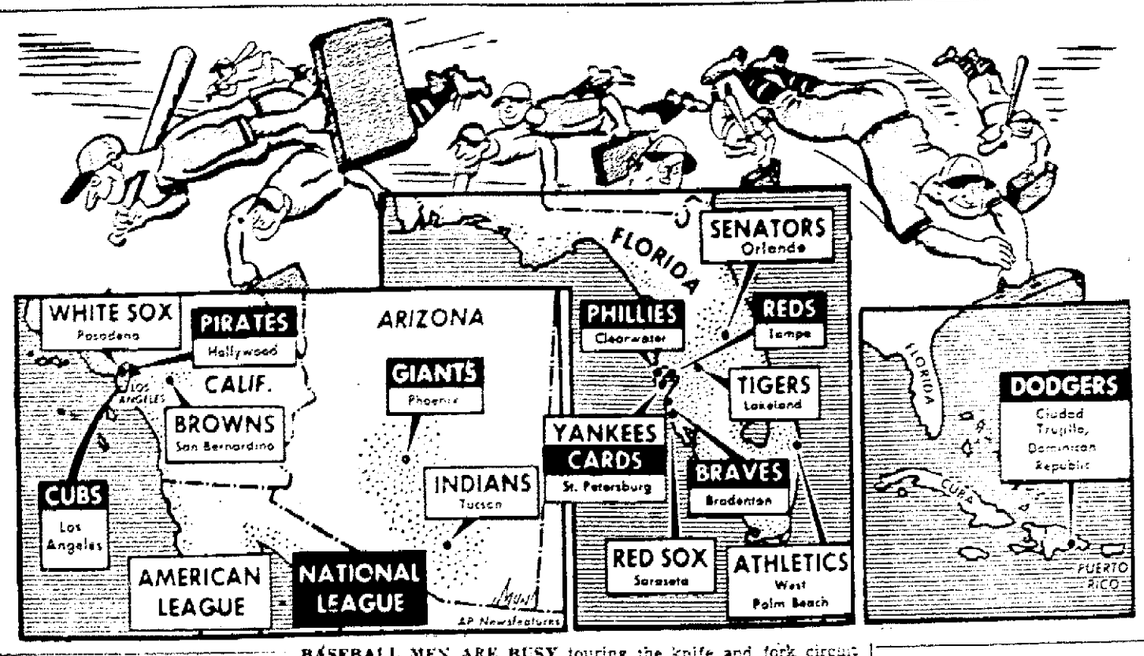
JOHNNY LINDELL IS YANKEE HOLDOUT

By The Associated Press

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 5—Johnny Lindell, hard-hitting New York Yankee outfielder, is a holdout. Lindell said he refused to sign a 1948 contract which calls for a $1,000 increase over his last year's salary and a bonus clause.

"I feel that is not enough of an increase," said Lindell, a policeman here in the off-season, "in view of the good year the Yanks had last year and my record."



BASEBALL MEN ARE BUSY touring the knife and fork circuit these days. But the 16 major league teams' front office workers are lining up a hectic training schedule for their squads. This season marks the first time that all teams will get off together because of the universal March 1 training date. The above map shows where the teams will pitch camp. Nine clubs will visit Florida, four California, two Arizona, while one will go to the Dominican Republic.

Mexican Boss Would Be Glad To Talk to Happy

By The Associated Press

HAVANA, Feb. 5 — Mexico's baseball boss, Jorge Pasquel, says he would be glad to talk things over with Happy Chandler, American commissioner.

There was some belief here, that the two already may have had a quiet chat concerning eligibility of U.S. players who jumped to the Mexican circuit. Reports have circulated that Chandler and Pasquel were registered in the same hotel not long ago, and the assumption is they met.

Asked here about a possible meeting, Pasquel said "Si senor, but on neutral ground." He indicated Havana would be a good place, but said he was going home to Mexico tomorrow.

Pasquel said he had talked with several players, Cuban and American, about signing up for the Mexican league, but had made no details yet.

Joe Gordon Gets Pay Boost from Indians

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 5—Joe Gordon, Cleveland's all-star second baseman, has inked a 1948 contract calling for a "substantial boost" in salary.

Tribe President Bill Veeck said: "Joe's worth every nickel of the raise." Traded to the Indians for hurler Allie Reynolds by the New York Yankees, Joe was runner-up for the American league homer crown last season with 29 round trippers.

The "flash" also led the club in runs-batted-in with 93 and set a new Cleveland fielding record of .978 for second sackers.

Steve Gromek, who injured his knee and compiled a poor 3-5 pitching mark last season, also accepted a new contract increasing the number of Indians signed to 27 of the 37 on the roster.

EMIL WANSA NEARLY HAS PETERSEN TOURNEY IN BAG

By The United Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 5—Emil Wansa, Lincoln Park, Mich., bowler who put together a 1716 total last Sunday, began making plans today to spend the first prize money in the $64,000 Petersen individual classic as four more squads left far short of his eight-game total.

Only 12 squads are left in the marathon tournament and observers said that only a stunning upset of form could knock Wansa out of the running now.

Among the leaders are Joe Popp, Cleveland, with 1621, and Pete Nusser, Cleveland with 1622.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—Golf's hall of fame has been a dormant affair until the Golf Writers' Association recently began a poll to pick the golfer of the year... Nevertheless, a committee named some years ago listed Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Francis Ouimet, Chic Evans, Tommy Armour, Alexa Stirling Fraser and Jim Barnes as eight golfers who belonged among golf's "immortals."...The project is about to be revived and this corner offers the suggestion that it should not be limited to Americans—after all, golf is a Scotch game—and that machinery should be set up to elect such golfers as Jim Vardon and Ted Ray as well as America's outstanding stars...Come to think of it, South Africa's Bobby Locke may be a candidate whenever his competitive career ends...Off his record last summer and this winter, Bobby may be the first foreign player to win the U.S. Open title since Ray did it many years ago.

ANY DISCUSSION of golf recalls the time when Bobby Jones and Byron Nelson were playing a practice round on the celebrated Augusta national course...They came up to the 15th hole—where Gene Sarazen made his great "double eagle" during the masters tournament...Nelson, a fine hunk of golfing machinery, slammed out a terrific drive. Then he took his brassie and walloped a great shot to the green...As he watched the ball bounce near the cup, Byron remarked: "Bobby, how would you feel when you tried to fade a shot like that?"...Jones, the "grand slam" champion of some years ago, turned away with a disgusted gesture as he watched the ball bounce a few feet from the cup. "Fade it? I'm not that good a golfer," he replied.

Galion and Edison will meet on Edison floor in another Junior High fray to be played today. Edison stands third in the league, and Galion is occupying the cellar slot. The league standing follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.

JOE NEIDEG WINS BOXING TROPHY

Marietta Joe Neideg proved to be the class of the Butlers participating in the Friendly House A.A.U. boxing tournament at Marietta Monday and Tuesday.

Fighting at 135 pounds Joe won three bouts, won the two-day contest, and was awarded the handsome Johnny Vilella trophy for outstanding fighter in the tournament.

Joe had a tough go of it as he edged Jack Branch, Marietta's middleweight, in a bloody semi-final bout on Monday to earn the right to fight in the finals. This bout was rated the best in the tournament.

Then Tuesday night Neideg outpointed the potent right fists of Jimmy Richards, F-H, and won the championship by a TKO in the third round.

Orlando "La" Carbetta, Marietta featherweight was the only other fighter mentioned for the trophy. He won the Tony Daley-Conner Miller trophy for scoring in the quickest time, as he won three bouts in 13 and 15 seconds and finished off Gene Ayers in one round in the finals.

Bill Franklin, also of Marion, lost in the finals to Howard Carney by a kayo in the first round. Franklin fights in the 126-pound class.

Decision To Arm U. S. Came During Naval Conference

By CORDELL HULL

(Copyright, 1948, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

* * *

INSTALLMENT X

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT took a lively interest in the progress of the London naval conference, which convened on Dec. 9, 1935 and went on to the end of March, 1936. Virtually from infancy he had had wide experience with ships of all kinds. Even as a boy, he had been particularly attracted to naval vessels passing in the vicinity of the New England shore. When he came to Washington as assistant secretary of the navy in Wilson's administration, he reveled in naval problems, tactics, facts and administration. He left that office as a deep student of all important naval affairs and with a fascination for the Navy.

When he became President, he probably knew more about the Navy than any of his predecessors. Throughout his administration, I found his giving preferential attention to every question arising in regard to the Navy. He himself made most of the more important decisions with respect to naval affairs. During the London naval conference, the President exhibited a rare knowledge of all the technical phases. He was well equipped to discuss the merits of the most technical developments and to offer suggestions. The oldest, most experienced admirals had great respect for his far-reaching knowledge of their profession.

In the telegrams I sent the President and in the verbal discussions we had on the London naval conference, the words "quantitative" and "qualitative" in connection with limitation of naval armaments were used scores of times, the former meaning limitation by total tonnage and the latter meaning limitations by the size of specific types of ships and guns. One day the President exploded. "Quantitative, qualitative, quantitative, qualitative!" he exclaimed. "I get sick and tired of hearing these words. Can't we find something to take their places?" But we never did.

THE PRESIDENT made a suggestion regarding the naval treaty on Feb. 28 which he sent to the state department in a memorandum and which we cabled to Norman Davis, chairman of our delegation in London. This suggestion crystallized in a section of the London Treaty which became one of the most important development of the conference. "What would you think," said the President, "of sending a telegram to Davis asking him to try to get even a gentleman's agreement from Great Britain, France, Italy (and through England from Germany) whereby each nation would agree to notify the other of every decision to lay down naval vessels of any size over 100 tons? If such a gentlemen's agreement could be obtained these four or five powers could then jointly or severally invite Japan to do the same thing?"

The question as to whether Germany should become a signatory to the treaty was a delicate one. On June 18, 1935, Great Britain and Germany had concluded an agreement fixing the German navy at 35 per cent of the navy of the British Empire. Since this was three times the naval strength permitted Germany under the Treaty of Versailles, France and Italy protested strongly. We on our side remained non-committal, because the Anglo-German agreement was essentially a European one and because we were not signatories to the Treaty of Versailles. When Britain proposed that Germany be brought into the London naval conference, France objected unless her entrance were coupled with an accord with Germany on the Rhineland and with Britain on mutual assistance.

HITLER SUMMARILY settled the discussion concerning the Rhineland by occupying the Rhineland with German troops on March 7, 1936, in violation of the Treaty of Versailles and the Locarno Pact. At that moment the London conference was drafting the text of the final agreement. The invasion of the Rhineland was a European development in which we were not involved, and no action was called for in Washington. But it was obvious that it was another seven-league step toward war. I cabled Davis on March 9, asking for his comment in view of the new European situation created and in view of the possibility of rumors or news stories which might connect the United States with developments there. I added: "In any event, we are unquestionably entering into a period of increasing tenseness in European affairs."

By March 20 we had submitted the final draft of the treaty to the President.

The President approved the treaty, but made a suggestion, which we passed on to Davis, on March 20, that Davis should state "that the American government and delegates are deeply disappointed that the new treaty does not provide for quantitative (overall tonnage) limitation."

On March 23 I cabled Davis the President's thought that Davis and Admiral Standley should sign a letter of thanks to Anthony Eden, head of the British delegation, "expressing pleasure and satisfaction over their association during the conference and incidentally to mention the fact that, while no quantitative limitations are provided in the new treaty similar to the provisions in former naval treaties, this government desired to avoid competition with the British in naval construction; that the British Empire and the United States accept as well-recognized and established principle fleet parity; that conditions and circumstances are such that the two governments should continue on the principle of parity; and that adherence thereto would contribute to friendly relations of the two governments and to world peace."

The British could reply in the same strain.

THIS HAD NO SOONER been done than the news leaked out, and various news stories were published about a "secret understanding" on cooperation between the British and American Navies. Minister Wilson in Geneva informed me that the "leak" originated from the Japanese observer at the conference who was kept informed, in confidence, by the British. We accordingly arranged for the release of both letters.

When Norman Davis came back from London in April, 1936, he and I had a long talk on the world situation. We went over the major developments since I entered the state department. Before us lay a tremendous problem and responsibility which our government was obliged to meet. It involved the accurate determination of when, in the light of chaotic conditions in many areas of the globe, this nation should, to all practical intents, abandon the undertaking to preserve peace through disarmament and proceed rapidly to arm sufficiently to be able to resist the plainly visible movements toward military conquest by Germany, Japan and Italy.

For over a decade the tendency of the world in general had been toward disarmament. But in the last several years he had seen acts and utterances by Japan, Germany and Italy definitely revealing intentions of aggression. We saw these countries repudiate all disarmament undertakings and every written obligation to keep the peace. At the same time, we saw wild, runaway races in armaments, with these aggressor nations as the chief offenders, accompanied by loud, brazen threats of conquest.

AS NORMAN DAVIS and I talked over these developments, it became clearly manifest that peace on the basis of disarmament was next to impossible. The question that then presented itself was whether and to what extent there could be suitable cooperation by the law abiding nations to curb the rapidly developing plans of military aggression. But our government, as I knew, was obliged virtually to ignore this possible method of preserving the peace, for the patent reason that public opinion here was, in majority, militantly and almost violently against our entering any such joint undertakings.

The only alternative remaining was for the United States, while continuing to preach and practice peace, and urging like policies on all nations, especially the avowed aggressors, to take immediate notice of the aggressors' movements and arm our nation without delay to the extent adequate for our security.

At the beginning of 1935 I had already communicated to the President my fervent belief that we would hasten construction of a larger Navy, particularly because of the situation in the Far East. On Jan. 22, 1935, I sent him a memorandum enclosing a copy of an excellent dispatch from Ambassador Grew in Tokyo giving a comprehensive view of the outlook in the Orient, and a copy of a memorandum prepared in the state department on the Far East.

One paragraph of the department memorandum read: "We should speed our efforts toward possessing a Navy so strong that no other country will think seriously of attacking us; and we should let it be clearly seen that, while not wanting to fight and having no reason for attacking any other country, the people of this country not only are not 'too proud to fight' but, given certain situations, would be too proud not to fight."

SOME CABINET MEMBERS thought it strange that the secretary of state should be recommending the building up of the Navy. A mutual friend of the President and me, Bernard Baruch, told me one day that the President expressed surprise that I should be "plugging" for a bigger Navy.

In 1935 I had begun to plan how to build up a stockpile of tin, a strategic material not produced in large quantities in the United States, which would be essential to the war and navy departments in the event of war. Through Dr. Herbert Feis, economic adviser of the department, who elaborated the plan, I communicated with British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay and laid the project before him. Basically it was that the British government should procure and deliver to our government a given quantity of tin, the value of which would be credited to Britain's indebtedness to this government.

After Sir Ronald had digested the plan, he came in to see me on June 6, 1935, and said he was forwarding the suggestion to London.

Sir Ronald was most gloomy. He said the British people considered the debts done with, and that the British government would have difficulty getting appropriations with which to pay for the tin to be delivered to us.

I reminded the ambassador that the chief supply of tin in the world was under the control of British capital. Some little payment in kind, such as we proposed, would be a revival of and in harmony with the spirit behind the token payments that his government had been cheerfully making until the unfortunate effects of the Hiram Johnson Act were created. This move would have a pleasing effect on the state of mind of our people toward the British government.

BUT SIR RONALD did not think the proposal would be received favorably even by the British foreign office. He was right. The answer from London was a complete refusal. It was not until four years later, three months before the outbreak of the European war, that we were able to negotiate an agreement with Britain whereby, through exchanging cotton for rubber and tin, we began to create reserves of strategic materials.

Actually, had our efforts at the state department been fruitful as early and as fully as we wished, the coming of war at Pearl Harbor would have found us with reserves sufficient to ease the burden of the war period.

SOUTHERNER SEEN ON TRUMAN TICKET

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Politicians wondered today whether the cries of Dixie Democrats outraged by the racial issue might influence President Truman to choose a southerner as his running mate.

The speculation among some Democrats here runs this way:

1. The revolt against Mr. Truman's 10-point civil rights program may never bring about the electoral college results its sponsors predict, but it could hurt the President in border states.

2. The late President Roosevelt was sufficiently concerned in 1944 by an even weaker Dixie protest to toss Henry Wallace overboard, he picked Mr. Truman, a Missourian, for his vice presidential nominee.

3. Someone like House Minority Leader Rayburn of Texas could be chosen without serious offense to either racial or labor groups in the north. He would give southern Democrats a voice at court.

The politicians who talked of these things emphasized that they are only speculating. President Truman alone knows how seriously he regards the southern complaints. His party leaders are inclined to discount them.

Senator McGrath (RI), Democratic national chairman, told a news conference at Troy, N. Y., yesterday that the Democratic party historically has championed human rights. He added he does not expect it to "fall in this issue."

It apparently is the party leaders' view that they have more to worry about on the score of Wallace's third party bid for the presidency than they have about the role of the south.

LAKE AND BULL STORY

By International News Service

LARAMIE, Wyo.—The roaring of a buffalo bull who jumped into a Wyoming lake early in the last century has kept most men away from the spot. Buffalo Bull Lake, on the Wind river about 55 miles from old South Pass City, took its name—and fame—from a buffalo who plunged into the lake after his herd had been killed, according to Lola Homsher, University of Wyoming archivist.
